Are you ready to set sail on the Mary Celeste for a disquieting adventure in the land of the Inuit?

England, 1837. Captain Briggs's ship the Mary Celeste is berthed in the port of Dover. The British authorities are in search of men—in exchange for a reward—to help find the two famous ships, the Erebus and the Terror, which disappeared more than a year ago during an exploration of the Arctic. Briggs decides to take up the rescue mission, except when he and his crew arrive in Inuit territory, they come across a ghost ship, too little to be either the Erebus or the Terror. The strange events that follow push the captain and his crew to their limits...
