The Amandine Islands, in southern French Polynesia, are in the middle of a coup d'état of unprecedented violence. To evacuate the many French citizens living there, the aircraft carrier "Charles de Gaulle" is deployed to the region. Unfortunately, the situation continues to degenerate. The insurgents are much better organized than anyone had realized... and are also obviously being supported by occult forces. How did they get hold of Rafales, the best fighter planes in the world? And who are the mysterious pilots who are so eager to battle the French Marines?

"Gecko" and "TNT," the best fighter pilots in Centaur Unit, don't have the time to reflect on these questions. First, they have to survive the inferno around them...
