One night in London, Tinkerbell is looking, once again, for Peter Pan. She thinks she sees him duck into an old bookshop. She follows him in, but no Peter... The bad-tempered old bookseller watches her from his hiding place, and then gives chase. Seizing a book from the display case, he slams the fairy inside. She disappears in a cloud of magic dust. He replaces the book where it was... a book that just happens to be Alice in Wonderland... Tinkerbell, finding herself hurled into this world of amicable lunatics, seeks desperately to find a way to return. But her magic won't work here. She can't even fly. Only Alice, who also comes from another world, can possibly help her...
