Imagine that mankind, after a biological degeneration, is incapable of dreaming. To remedy this deficiency, which can be fatal, the big monopolies that control the world's economy develop a pill that makes it possible to dream again. In this nightmarish future, an independent company decides to fight against this detestable form of control. A newly signed series from Latil, an established scriptwriter, and Sergi San Julian, a still unknown Spanish author who evokes the early works of Marini. A discovery!
