Sitting in the front room of her brothel, Madam Anne Bonny, once a pirate of the South Seas, looks back on her life... and the story of her adventures is rather shocking!

An illegitimate child born in a remote Irish village, Anne escaped her dreary destiny by fleeing to the Caribbean, where she fought with pirates and met the love of her life, Jack Rackham.

Claire Richard plays with the clichés of the pirate genre in this feminist rewrite of a well-known story, whose humor lies in the disconnect between official history and modern reinterpretation.
