At the edge of a vast concrete city, in a tiny green oasis, sits a little house—home to Timéo, a hypersensitive 10-year-old. The house is his cocoon; everything outside it terrifies him—the city, the unknown, other people. To help him overcome his fears, his grandma gives Timéo a magic pebble, which enables him to start each day over whenever it gets too scary. But life turns out not to be as simple as that...

Fortunately, Timéo soon runs into Roya, a fiery young gypsy, whose family has just set up camp on the other side of the street. Though they seem to have nothing in common, the two children find themselves thrown together—and into an incredible adventure...
