A boy fishing with his grandfather in Alsace—a simple scene... in times of peace. But for Bernard, the old man, this scenery is haunted by memories of the war, decades earlier, when he was a member of the Resistance group known as the “Ivy Leaves.” Could they defeat the Nazis, who had just annexed the region? Or would the “Spider,” as the enemy was known, arrest Bernard and send him to a concentration camp... or worse?

Grégoire Carlé recounts his own grandfather’s experiences—a story his family have never before dared to tell.

Le Lierre et l'Araignée

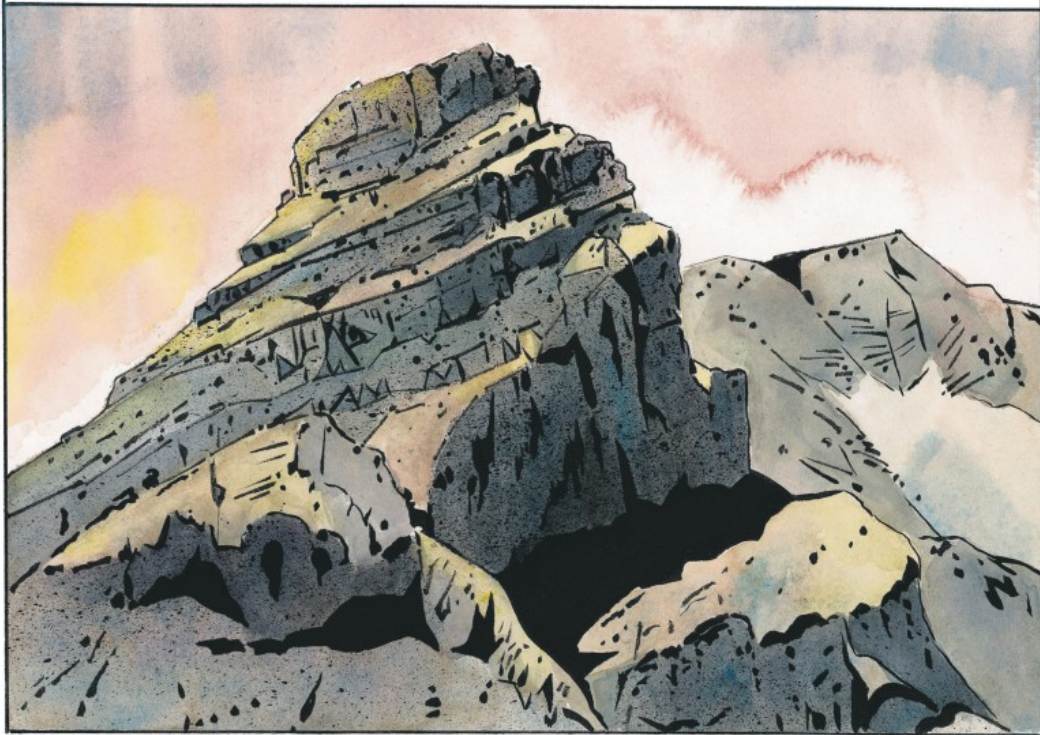

Ma canne oscille d'un battement régulier. Une énergie fluide circule de mes reins jusqu'à la soie et propulse cette minuscule mouche sur la rive opposée... mais la truite n'en veut pas!

Je dois encore apprendre à lire la rivière, ce livre écrit dans une langue secrète et dont le courant tourne les pages.

Pendant ce temps, accoudé sur la rambarde, le regard de pépé se perd dans l'eau froide qui descend des montagnes du Dévoluy.

Abreuvés à la source de Mnémosyne, les souvenirs jaillissent des profondeurs.
