The Martians have landed — in 1960, in swinging London! For Martians, they're very pleasant people, despite their unusual faces. They blend easily into the population, becoming Bobbies, dry-cleaners, eccentric tailors... or guitarists in rock groups of four modern lads!

Brett Sinclair — THE Brett Sinclair — is investigating the situation.

He will cross the path of the Beatles, the Stones, the Queen, Louis de Funès, Pierre Tornade... all of this in a jolly shambles a la Austin Powers. Names, of course, have been slightly changed.
