February 19, 1342. The Loredana, a galley flying the flag of the Venetian Republic, and which left Corfu two days ago, has just arrived at the place designated for a strange rendez-vous, off the coast of Milos. Here, two young people are to be exchanged as a token of friendship between their nations: Marina Dandolo, daughter of the Doge of Venice, and the son of the Sultan of the Ottoman Empire. But neither will ever arrive at their destination... Marina and her young brother Zuanne find themselves held prisoners at Doulopolis, the city where pirates dump their hostages while waiting for a ransom. But Marina doesn't know that her father has no intention of paying her ransom. Worse still: the Doge wants his daughter dead! We are never so thoroughly betrayed as by those we love... Venice, today. Professor Doria is making plans to raise a sunken 14th century pirate ship, the Pantegana, and, along with it, one of the most closely guarded secrets in the history of the Serenissima: the prophecy of Dante Alighieri. It looks as if Venice's hours are numbered... The moment has come for the Doge to convene the super-secret Council of 10, who, across the centuries, have continued to watch over the destiny of the City of Lagoons...
