Caroline, 33 years old, has a son whom she is raising by herself. She has signed up for M.A., 'Mothers Anonymous', a support group for exhausted mothers who need a "cure" for motherhood. Becoming a mother is amazing, it would seem. At "Mothers Anonymous," it's another story. Being a mother is, in fact, not so simple! When Dad is not around, the bills pile up and so do the diapers, you end up wondering if you've lost the instruction manual somewhere...With the frail heroine, Caroline, who tries to forget that her son is the spitting image of the man who left her, and Marie, a rock'n'roll mama, we discover that there are as many mothers as there are women and that reality is different from what we are willing to admit to ourselves. A candid book, created with uncompromising vision that's always honest about motherhood. References :- Claire Bretecher- Pénélope Bagieu/Margaux Motin- Elisabeth Badinter
