The abuse of alcohol can be dangerous to your health — especially if you're a vigilante...

By day, Paulette Comet is a young university student, studying sociology at the Université Diderot Paris VII and living with her grandmother. By night, she becomes a masked vigilante who takes revenge upon evildoers! It's not easy to make time for all that, especially when you have exams coming up. To make things worse, Paulette has a serious problem: if she imbibes even a drop of alcohol — even a pastry flavored with Grand Marnier! — she loses her self-control and experiences inexplicable surges of heat that leave her light-headed and dizzy. When that happens, she's even capable of falling in love with a burglar like Raymond la Science... which is very irritating! Paulette is, perhaps, a bit naïve; she's not really aware of the effect her voluptuous body has on men. Nonetheless, she plans to take on a major symbol of untrammelled capitalism — the FLÜ, a multinational corporation that wants to use her for its own publicity by convincing the public that Paulette uses only their products!

Paulette doesn't plan to let herself be taken advantage of. But, of course, what she really has to be careful of is never — never, never, never — to ingest the tiniest drop of alcohol...
