Young Philemon lives in the countryside and spends most of his time day-dreaming with his donkey Anatole. On a walk one day, he meets Barthélémy the well-digger who is searching for his lost island paradise: the letter 'A' from the word 'Atlantic'. With the help of his old uncle Phélicien, who knows how to get there, they often journey over to this parallel universe. Unfortunately, things don't always go as planned, and they sometimes find themselves transported to other letters, where they come across some truly bizarre characters... This wacky and wonderful universe was first created by Fred for PILOTE in 1965. His imaginative art style, unusual compositions, incredibly detailed panels, cheeky references, tricks and graphic treasures will leave every reader wanting more.
