A mix of Toy Story and Terminator. In a post-apocalyptic future, toys armed with artificial intelligence manufactured by various international brands, engage in a terrible war against humankind. Four children of different ages, all living in a world dominated by war toys, one day hear tell of Gehoor Beentjies, the South African who was the first to invent artificial intelligence for toys. Despite everyone thinking he was dead, it soon comes to light that he is still alive somewhere, protected by his first intelligent toy, Speelgoed. The children manage to escape from their prison to seek him out and ask him to put an end to the violence.
