And what if clothes had superpowers?

At Vesmondo, where every item of clothing gives its wearer magical powers, lives Luth Sakristo, a young boy capable of using them all with the slightest of touches. However, activating these powers can leave him close to death, so he must be careful not to use them too much! Setting out on the trail of his grandfather, who's been abducted by a criminal gang, the Metalo Kiraso, Luth meets new friends and discovers, during his adventure, the vastness and richness of the world of Vesmondo.
